Five Fingers

for Education

Words & Epithets

I saw my business neighbor Oliver Mills talking to a very small boy yesterday. As a matter of fact they were having an argument.

The boy held up his hand and said, "Five fingers."

"No," said Oliver, "there are only four — count 'em."

But the youngster couldn't count. It was obvious, however, that he didn't go along with Oliver's arithmetic.

I don't suppose this conformed to conventional teaching standards, but that sidewalk tableau nevertheless was the oldest educational piece known to man.

The youngster, no doubt, went home to papa and confirmed the fact that the fingers on his hand — whether counted or not — were five.

He will, as he grows older, place less trust in what he hears on the sidewalk and depend more on what he knows of his own personal experience to be true.

Which will make him a wiser man than his elders.

Obscene language is a widespread defect in today's best-selling books. William Feather reports in Imperial Type Metal magazine; and he makes two remarks:

1. Book publishers use profitable obscenity in popular fiction to finance the printing of worth-while but unprofitable books which otherwise might not be published at all, and

2. Book publishers can do this while newspapers and magazines cannot. Books are issued singly. You buy a book and don't even remember the name of the publisher. But a periodical or newspaper publisher whose text offends against good taste would quickly find himself vulnerable — he depends on circulation, the continuity of whose subscriptions can be cut at will by the reading public.

I noted that nowhere in his commentary did Mr. Feather suggest that the remedy for filthy books is government censorship. The reason, of course, is that official censorship is more evil than an occasional evil book. Censorship begins with an intent to suppress evil and ends up by suppressing everything that the official censor himself doesn't like. The whole history of man's education has been a never-ending battle against political tyrants and censors.

Democracy is the belief that every individual does his own censoring. Thus, each family keeps a careful eye on what kind of literature comes into the house.

Newspapers, being family organs, have to conform to language that is acceptable for children.

Books are a different question. Most of them are for universal reading, but some books are for adults only. Where they prove offensive even to adults your recourse is hardly against the book publisher, whom you scarcely remember — but it's against the author. I simply wouldn't waste any more money buying books that he writes.

My personal gripe against the best-sellers isn't so much the profanity — rather, it's the fact that so many of these stories run 300 or 400 pages and fail to uncover a single admirable character. I wonder how they came to be written.

What excuse there was for writing 'em, and why the public keeps on buying. If the first duty of fiction isn't to disclose a memorable character and a good story then I don't know anything about literature.

I never will forget "Rainbow County," the most worthless rubbish ever put between book covers. I'll admit laying out good money for a poor book, but the author spared me the necessity of saying "No" to his next story by obligingly hanging himself in his New England garage.

Arkansas' Phone Operators Go Back to Work

Little Rock, April 16 (AP)—The 3-day statewide walk-out of some 2,500 Southwestern Bell Telephone Company employees ended at 6 a. m. today.

The return-to-work orders were issued by the CIO Communications Workers of America union about 10:30 p. m. last night following a meeting between management and labor representatives.

Union Representative Floyd Taylor of Little Rock said an agreement had been reached whereby supervisory employees of the telephone company would be removed from the switchboards.

The walk-out of SWB employees was ordered Sunday in connection with a strike by Western Electric equipment installers. Both SWB and WE employees are members of the same union.

Union spokesmen said that operators honoring the striking installers picket lines were "locked out and suspended," when they returned to duty, by supervisors taking their places at the switchboards.

Taylor said last night's agreement had no connection with the striking WE employees' dispute.

Eisenhower Will Win in State — Speck

Little Rock, April 16 (UP)—Jeff Speck, chairman of the Eisenhower-for-President drive in Arkansas, said today that he believes the sentiment of the state Republican convention will favor Sen. Robert A. Taft as the GOP presidential nominee.

Speck said in a prepared statement that "this does not mean we are quitting our fight to swing the convention to General Eisenhower. We will be in there swinging at the convention."

Speck said that while attending the Third Congressional District Republican convention in Huntsville yesterday he noticed a pro-Eisenhower sentiment in Searcy and Madison counties.

"These two counties continue to elect officers and representatives to the state legislature," Speck continued. "To me, this is an indication that the Republican counties, in Arkansas which are continually in practicing politics, realize that they must have a strong Democratic vote in order to win an election."

"They also realize that it will take a strong Democratic vote in order for the state of Arkansas to go Republican in the general election in November. These Republicans in these two counties apparently feel that Gen. Eisenhower could obtain more Democratic votes than any other prospective Republican presidential nominee and could carry the state of Arkansas."

New Discovery May Prevent Polio Virus

New York, April 16 (AP)—A vital new discovery about polio will be tested on children this summer, to prevent infantile paralysis.

The discovery is that the polio virus apparently gets into the blood before it enters nerves and destroys them. And while the virus still is in the blood, it can be killed by giving antibodies.

This kind of prevention of polio has worked in monkeys and chimpanzees.

Next, children threatened by an epidemic will be given the antibodies to hit the virus before it makes them sick. Where or when the tests will come was not disclosed.

The antibodies will come from human blood. Most people have had polio, without even knowing it and they made their own antibodies to destroy the virus. One substance in your blood carries these antibodies.

The new discoveries were reported to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology by Dr. David Bodian of Johns Hopkins University and Dr. Dorothy M. Horstmann of Yale.

Their findings in monkeys apparently apply as well to humans. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis supported their work.

The monkeys got polio virus in their food — just as humans do. A week or two later, the virus was found in their blood, and it stayed there for a few days. All this time, the monkeys showed no signs of sickness.

Later, some monkeys got sick and became paralyzed when the virus left the blood and attacked nerves.

All the monkeys produced their own antibodies, but some apparently did not make enough, or did not make them soon enough.

If the monkeys were first given an extra dose of antibodies, they did not get sick.

The hope is that such antibody shots would protect many humans in a polio epidemic. It might be a hard problem to get enough of the blood medicine, or to give it soon enough. And the antibodies that are given this way don't last effectively for very long.

But there is another encouraging fact—that only a small dose of antibodies does the trick, Dr. Bodian said.

This brightens the hopes for a real vaccine.

X-Ray Technicians to Meet Here

A meeting of X-ray technicians of the Southwestern District will be held Saturday night, April 19 at Hotel Barlow with Dan Cummings, Little Rock, discussing "Fundamentals of X-ray." The session starts at 7:30 p.m.

After the speaking the group will be entertained at the home of Dr. James Branch. Anyone doing technical work and interested in attending the conference please contact Mrs. Oliver Mills for a reservation.

It is believed that sleep occurs only among animals with a fairly highly developed central nervous system.

Sniper Fires at Games Warden Near Lewisville

Lewisville, April 16 (AP)—Bloodhounds followed by a posse search the Bayou Bodcaw woods south of here did not locate an unknown sniper who took potshots at Game Warden James Bray yesterday.

State Policeman Milton Mosier said the hounds traced the sniper to a backroad, but lost his scent in the gravel. Mosier said he obviously had driven off in an automobile.

Bray said he stopped his truck yesterday when he heard a dog. He said that, immediately, two shots crashed through the windshield of his truck—barely missing his head.

Bray was in the section to investigate illegal hunting.

Tackett Sees No Need for Tax Increase

By The Associated Press

Gubernatorial Candidate Boyd Tackett of Nashville says there is no necessity for an increase in state taxes.

Rep. Tackett, who will seek the Democratic nomination for governor of Arkansas in the summer primaries, told 3,500 of the "homefolk who knew me best" Tuesday that:

"By the elimination of waste and extravagance and the proper utilization of revenues now available it will not be necessary to raise taxes."

"The Arkansas taxpayer already is overburdened and if the emphasis is placed where it belongs — on efficient administration — the money now coming into the state treasury will do the job."

Tackett spoke to a crowd of supporters from eight Southwest Arkansas counties at a rally on the shores of Narrows Lake near Murfreesboro.

Tackett used most of his address to lash the administration of Gov. Sid McMath. While McMath has not announced his candidacy for a third term, he is expected to do so.

Tackett condemned compromise acceptance of campaign contributions where there is no campaign and "the requiring of contributions from firms doing business with the state."

The congressman also rapped what he said was a "whispering campaign" being conducted against him by "McMath henchmen."

He called Gov. McMath's highway building program "paint brush paving," and predicted that roads paved by the administration would not stand up for more than a year.

Tackett also touched on his opposition to a proposed electrical cop power plant for Northwest Arkansas. He said he opposed the plant, which would have been built with a loan from the Rural Electrification Administration, because he was working "to keep the bureaucrats in Washington from robbing the people of Arkansas of its REA program."

The big rally was sponsored by Tackett supporters in Montgomery, Pike and Howard counties. Tackett was born in Montgomery, practiced law in Pike and now lives in Howard.

Large delegations were present from Little River, Sevier, Polk, Clark and Miller counties. R. A. Chairman Nathan Coulter estimated the crowd at 3,500.

Meanwhile, the Northwest Arkansas, Third District Republicans selected two delegates and two alternates to the Republican National Convention, and chose a nominee for congressman.

Harry Pollock of Ft. Smith, and F. A. Teague of Berryville were elected convention delegates. Pollock refused to say who he favored for the GOP presidential nomination, and Teague was not available for comment.

Named alternates were S. E. Treaste of Siloam Springs — a supporter of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower — and John E. Ellis of Fayetteville.

Levees Still Holding as Workers Battle Rising Missouri at Omaha

Newark, N. J., April 16 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's smashing New Jersey primary victory appeared to have convinced some of his backers he won't have to campaign vigorously for the Republican presidential nomination.

Before New Jersey Republicans gave the five-star general a 130,000 vote margin over Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, one influential Eisenhower campaigner told this reporter he believed the North Atlantic Treaty Organization military commander had "pulled a bomber" last week in saying he had no plans to campaign.

This Eisenhower backer, who didn't want to be quoted by name, said he regarded it as a mistake for the general to say he wouldn't resign from the Army unless or until he were nominated at Chicago.

But the New Jersey results appear to have bolstered the belief of many of the Eisenhower backers that the general can come home in June, make a few selected speeches and go into the convention with a good chance for the nomination.

They argue that campaigning such as Taft has done across the land would only involve Eisenhower in detailed domestic issues which he otherwise could treat with broad brush strokes. Primary tests in Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Oregon and several state conventions will shed more light on this theory before Eisenhower's return.

McEisenhower's victory was substantial in New Jersey, Taft's defeat there apparently was not crushing nor overly damaging to his nomination chances.

The Ohio senator appeared to have salvaged from three of six of the state's 38 delegates besides running up a respectable vote total for a candidate who tried to get his name off the ballot, and, failing that, didn't campaign.

John D. M. Hamilton, Taft's Eastern manager, claimed a "moral victory" for whatever that kind of a victory is worth.

Even if his attempted political withdrawal was only a political maneuver—as the Eisenhower forces charged and Taft men denied—the Ohioan took the sting out of a defeat that might have been a serious setback if it had come after he had campaigned actively in New Jersey.

Highest Crest in History Expected on Thursday

Omaha, Neb., April 16 (UP)—More than 8,000 levee workers today poured sand, gravel and lumber into the dikes holding back the pounding waters of the Missouri River.

They swarmed like ants over the levees, building them ever higher and rushing to repair the slightest chink through which the river could burst in upon the near-drowned cities of East Omaha and Council Bluffs, Ia.

The river swept past at 28.5 feet, the highest in history. It was only toward a predicted crest tomorrow of 31.6 feet.

President Truman was scheduled to leave Washington for a flying tour aboard his private plane the independence of the sticklebrans of Illinois, Wisconsin, and finally the Omaha-Council Bluffs area.

There he will confer with the governors of both Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

His trip will take him over a portion of the 1,250,000 flooded acres in four valley states where the Missouri, Mississippi and other rivers have driven more than 75,000 persons from their homes.

Even as levee workers struggled ceaselessly to build the dikes protecting Council Bluffs two feet higher, the Red Cross at Omaha announced that 100,000 persons in states have been "affected" by the disastrous floods.

The Red Cross figure was broken down into 62,000 in Iowa, 12,844 in Nebraska, 12,844 in Missouri, and 12,844 in Illinois.

Eisenhower in Smashing Win in New Jersey; Stevenson Won't Accept Nomination

Chicago, April 16 (AP)—The Chicago Sun-Times, in a copyright story from Washington, said Gov. Adlai Stevenson today will reject pleas of Democratic party leaders to become a presidential candidate.

The Sun-Times story, written by Milburn P. Akers, said the Illinois governor's decision was revealed to the Sun-Times "by a high party official here Washington." It added Stevenson plans an announcement at Springfield, Ill., about an hour after he departs for a special flood emergency conference with President Truman at Omaha today.

The governor, prominently mentioned as a possible candidate for the Democratic nomination as President, has called a news conference this morning at Springfield to clarify his political future.

Stevenson has steadfastly maintained he is a candidate only for one political office — that of governor.

The Sun-Times story from Washington said he will issue a statement refusing to accept the presidential nomination and "it will be little short of unequivocal."

Fagan Draws Woman as Opponent

April 16 (UPI)—Ellis Fagan, president pro tem of the Senate, today drew some opposition in his bid for re-election in the Senate. Fagan, 47, is the son of a former congressman, David D. Terry.

Fagan planned to file his declaration of candidacy with the clerk of the Senate today. He is the leading legislative figure in the administration of Gov. McMath. Mrs. Terry is now director of the soil conservation and flood control division of the Arkansas Resources Development Commission. It is expected that Mrs. Terry would receive administration support in her race against Fagan.

Mrs. Terry made the announcement of her candidacy last week with the following statement:

"I want the people of Arkansas to know that I intend to run for the Senate. I am a native Arkansian and I have lived in this state for 25 years. I am a member of the governing body of the state, the Arkansas Resources Development Commission. I am a member of the Family Service Agency."

Fagan is a former Spanish student, who now attends Southern State College, Magnolia, where guests of the class for a Spanish luncheon.

Belgium Told Farewell by Eisenhower

Brussels, April 16 (AP)—Belgium Gov. Dwight D. Eisenhower made a farewell visit to Belgium today and persisted in his refusal to talk publicly about American political developments that are taking him away from his Allied Command.

Earlier today, when he took off from Paris, he told reporters: "I wouldn't have anything useful to say about his victory in yesterday's presidential primary voting in France."

Plainly showing his irritation at the eagerness of reporters who pressed him to his airplane when he landed here, he hurriedly reviewed a Belgian Air Force honor guard and then hurried into a waiting limousine to call on King Baudouin.

Mrs. Eisenhower, who flew with her husband, was in a more genial mood and chatted with reporters about the prospects of her return to the United States about June 1.

"Of course, I'll be glad to go back," she said. "Anyone who is away from home always is glad to get back, but I'll be just as sorry to leave Europe. We have been very happy here the past year."

Mrs. Eisenhower, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Gordon Moore, was met by Mrs. Eugene de Greef, wife of the Belgian defense minister. The three women went to call on Queen Elizabeth.

The general spent nearly half an hour with the 21-year-old Belgian king, then placed a huge wreath of red, white and blue flowers before the eternal flame burning at the tomb of Belgium's unknown soldier.

Then he drove to meet Queen Elizabeth.

Eisenhower's program today included lunch with the De Greets, and conferences on Belgium's defense program with Premier Jean Van Houtte, cabinet officials and chiefs of the land, sea and air forces.

"That's a monumental achievement in which all of us can take pride. For where else but in our own United States of America, could such an achievement be possible?"

In the words inscribed on the dedication, the Penney Company has grown — is growing — with this Nation.

"One is a success story, not of one man alone but of many men. Early in his career our founder, Mr. J. C. Penney, realized that he would succeed only if others found success with him. Eventually he became known as the 'man with a thousand partners' — and thereby pioneered a profit-sharing idea which contributed much to the Company's success."

"Pioneering consideration for customers, associates, suppliers and stockholders always has been a Penney Company objective, also stressed here in value and quality — a fact which led eventually to establishment of a research and testing laboratory to make sure Penney merchandise standards would be consistently met and maintained."

"Today the Company has a staff of 200 buyers, highly trained and alert to people's needs, combing the merchandise markets of the world. All are specialists, in fields ranging from women's fashions to boys' jeans; from blankets to work shoes; from hosiery to infants' wear. And all have the responsibility and determination to see that Penney stores have the merchandise people need at prices they can afford to pay."

"As our Jubilee gets underway we believe our customers will benefit more than ever by the great values that have been planned for them. All the accumulated experience and know-how of 36 years of successful merchandising have been brought into play to see that for our customers, as well as ourselves, this will truly be a 'golden year.'"

Scene of First Penney's

Believing Golden Rule principles should be applied in business as well as personal life, J. C. Penney called his first store "The Golden Rule." Above, "The Golden Rule" in Kemmerer, Wyo., as it appeared in the early 1900's. From a single store eventually sales last year of more than one billion dollars.

Penney Company to Observe Golden Jubilee

A. C. Stonequist, manager of J. C. Penney Company, announced today the formal opening tomorrow of the Company's Golden Jubilee.

"This is a great occasion for us, a time for celebration," said Mr. Stonequist. "In just 36 years this Company has grown from a single store in Southwestern Wyoming to a great retail merchandising organization — the largest of its kind in the world — with more than 1,600 stores and 70,000 associates serving nearly 40 million people."

"That's a monumental achievement in which all of us can take pride. For where else but in our own United States of America, could such an achievement be possible?"

Another Quake Is Reported in Oklahoma

El Reno, Okla., April 16 (AP)—For the third time in a week this city held onto its hat as the ground shook in two distinct earthquakes.

The tremors, which struck at about midnight and 12:05 a.m. today were felt also in parts of Oklahoma City and nearby Union City. Other cities in the vicinity did not feel the quake. No damage has been reported.

A week ago today the first earthquake of the current series hit the Midwest. That one shook buildings in seven states.

Seismologists placed the center of the first disturbance near Oklahoma City and said it was caused by a four inch shift in a deeply buried mountain range which stretches from Texas to Nebraska. W. E. Maughn, Oklahoma City weather observer, said additional light quakes can be expected following the first one.

"It will be Mother Earth smooth-trays was given by Mrs. Lorraine Blackwood at the Victory HDC on April 2 at Mrs. William Schooley's home. There were 15 trays made. The club adjourned at 12 o'clock for a pot luck lunch.

In the afternoon the club met for a short business session. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Hallar McCorkle. The club creed was repeated by all followed by the devotional given by Mrs. Schooley. Prayer was led by Mrs. John Lloyd. The roll call was answered with each one telling "One New Vegetable I Planted This Year." There were 14 old members and two new members, Mrs. Jimmie Miller, and Mrs. Archie Smith, present. The song of the month, "Arkansas Traveler," was sung by the group accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Orville Holscher.

The club voted to take part in Amateur Night, chairman elected was Mrs. William Schooley.

The club will give two quilts to the tornado stricken area. The quilts were donated by Mrs. Archie Smith and Mrs. Jack Sumpter. The quilts will be quilted Tuesday at an all-day meeting. Mrs. Lois Hampton won the game prize. The May meeting will be with Mrs. Lacie Rowe.

DOROTHY DIX

Beau's Actions Inconsistent

Dear Miss Dix: I'm in love with a young man in the service. Before I met him he had been engaged to another girl. We had gone steady quite a while before he went into the Army, then we corresponded regularly. He said he loved me, and seemed very sincere. When he came home on his first furlough, I only saw him twice. We did continue to correspond, however. On his next furlough he went out with his ex-fiancee, who has now thrown him over and become engaged to someone else. I suppose I should just forget him, but I love him anyway.

ELAINE

Answer: You'd be foolish to take too many chances on getting seriously hurt, but if the young man is footloose again, and shows evidence of wanting to go with you, you might give him another chance.

ing out her blanket from Iowa to Texas," said Maughn.

Telephone operators at El Reno reported the new tremor knocked out every drop line on the board. The reformatory here said all the inmates were awakened.

Observers described it as about half as strong as the original shock last week.

Capt. Harold W. Knox, on the police radio desk here, said he was sitting in his chair when the building shook.

"I threw my paper down and started outside," he said. I was standing on the street when the second one hit.

A woman at Oklahoma City reported to police she awoke and saw the bed move. She wanted officers to find out if there was a man hiding underneath.

Another Russia General Dies

Moscow, April 16 (AP)—Red Star, the Soviet Army Journal reported today the death of Maj. Gen. Sergei Surin, 49, who had been in the War Ministry after serving in front line posts during the war.

The cause of his death was not reported in the dispatch from Moscow.

Perhaps he's learned his lesson about fickle women.

Men in service are under so much tension that their actions often are inconsistent. An understanding girl at the other end of the mail line is the best insurance for a return to normality. If you can muster the patience, try to be that girl!

Wife Erred First

Dear Miss Dix: I am 30 years of age, have been married just about eleven years and have a daughter. My husband and I have had our differences, and finally I asked for my freedom because of another man. My husband went ahead and applied for a divorce. As soon as he had, I knew it wasn't what I wanted. I've begged and pleaded for him to drop the case and give me another chance but he says he has plans with another. Do you think he could love me and our child for so long and then fall in love with someone else just because I made a mistake?

HEARTBROKEN WIFE

Answer: After all, you made the first mistake and can scarcely blame your husband for being caught so quickly on the rebound. Whether you will get him back or not is so uncertain that I can offer no suggestions as to its accomplishment. Perhaps your clergyman, or a trusted friend, could intercede for you. I think it highly probable that your husband does still love you, but his hurt pride won't let him admit it. You might also talk to the "other girl"—and this is one of the few instances in which I could ever advise that procedure. Knowing all the circumstances, and realizing that your husband has turned to her simply to have his wounded feelings soothed, may prompt her to give him up. If you're lucky enough to have all your differences happily settled, I hope you're smart enough to keep them that way.

Dear Miss Dix: I'm 16 and going with a 21-year-old boy who has a wonderful personality, but is a little shorter than I. My mother thinks I'm too young to go out with boys yet.

ANGIE C.

Answer: You are too young to be going seriously with a boy. If the difference in height worries you now, remember you're still growing while the boy friend has, in all probability, attained his full growth, so the difference in stature may become greater.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 22 and in love with a married man 28. He has a 3-year-old girl. I know he loves me and doesn't love his wife. I am the mother of his 2-week-old baby, now in the hands of a friend for an indefinite period. While his wife knows all about us, she still refuses to give him a divorce. Don't you think she should leave him?

HELEN F.

Answer: Your sweetheart's wife has no obligation to you or your child. If she wants to stand on her rights as a lawful wife that is her privilege. She probably has her own reasons and there is nothing you can do to force her hand. If your lover can support two families, you're entitled to financial consideration at least; if he can't, his legal family comes first.

Dear Miss Dix: How can I redeem myself with a friend I unintentionally wronged? I have done everything to make amends and show her how deeply sorry I am, but I can't seem to make her understand. She has cut me off from seeing her or communicating with her in any way. I love her dearly and this treatment is making me ill. We're not kids, both of us being over 40.

VERA B.

Answer: Of course you don't indicate the extent of the injury to your friend, but I gather it must have been serious. Hurt feelings are sometimes very difficult to repair, and the difficulty grows in proportion to the depth of friendship that once existed.

Since there is absolutely no way you are able to reach your friend, why not try the services of an intermediary? Some mutual friend might have a chance to present your side of the story along with the sincere regret you have over the unfortunate circumstances.

A broken friendship is a sad thing and it is my belief that ev-everything should be done to mend it. Your friend, I am sure, is as unhappy as you are, but since you are truly sorry for the wrong inflicted, she should accept your apology. Holding grudges is a pitiful waste of time and affection, but trying to convince people to do as you wish is one of the hardest tasks. In this case, a third person, to offer the only possible solution.

Officers Won't Face Charges

San Antonio, Calif., April 15 (UP)—Air Force officers were for- feited today of disobeying orders to fly, while the Air Force charged two other cases to de- termine if they merit court mar- tial.

Of the officers are World War veterans and wear decora- tions. They are bombardiers, nav- igation and radar observers re- turned from civilian life after the war was begun.

Four officers were charged at Randolph Air Force base in Texas with disobeying a superior officer. The other cases at that base were under investigation.

At Mather Air Force base near Los Angeles, six other officers were under preliminary charge of direct dis- obedience of an order to fly. A charge of officers was investigating if the men should be court mar- tial.

Information officer at Mather said conviction on the charge would bring dishonor from the service and six months confine- ment.

However, one of the officers, Lt. Jerome M. Schechter, 35, of Springfield, N. J., said he was charged the penalty for refusing to fly five years' imprisonment.

The six officers at Mather Field were assigned to ground duty until court martial is held.

In addition to Schechter: John Hook, Chambersburg, Pa.; Lt. James D. Snoddy, Well- ington, N. C.; Lt. Ralph C. Engel, Cleveland, Ohio; 2nd Lt. Joseph M. Bueaglin, Chicago; and Lt. Stanley Rosenthal, Phila- delphia, Pa.

The Randolph field fliers who were formally charged are: Lt. James G. Bristol, 35; 1st Lt. Courtney, 27; Appleton, 31; Lt. Robert P. Haskbrook, Dallas, Tex.; and 1st Lt. Wayne Holt, 30, Urbana, Ill.

Courtney served to combat mis- sions in the Pacific. Holt flew 35 missions and Haskbrook flew 35 missions over Europe and also was in the Berlin blitz.

Three Cities Vote on Parking Meters

By The Associated Press

Three Arkansas cities voted on installation of parking meters today and the vote was one for and two against.

Fayetteville voted for installation of the meters, 420-23. Meter rev- enue will be earmarked for street maintenance.

The two cities rejecting the park- ing meters were Mena and Paris.

Mena election was the second in less than a year on the parking meter question. The up- per official tally was 470 against, 321 for. In Paris, the unofficial vote was 115 against, 254 for.

Thirty-three Arkansas cities now have voted for installation of the meters.

Navy Pilot Hero of Plane Crash

Brunswick, Me., April 15 (AP)—A Navy pilot today emerged as hero of a crash and fire that killed five men and injured the other five aboard a crippled patrol bomber attempting an instrument landing here.

Lt. (JG) Thomas N. Pole, unin- jured when his PV2 Ventura crashed into mist-shrouded trees at the edge of Brunswick Naval Air Station yesterday, suffered face and hand burns receiving his cap- tain. Lt. Frederick G. Sachse, who was caught in the flaming wreck- age.

Sachse, who was critically burned comes from Ann Harbor, Mich., and Pole from Hackett- town, N. J.

Rescued the Lt. Pole and Sachse, the injured include Lt. (JG) Ed- ward O. Huck of Muskogee, Okla., the navigator.

Connally One of Fading Old School Group

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 15 (AP)—The Senate is like a political delicatessen. It has a variety of men and opinions garnished with dignity and over-spiced with oratory. If there's a show of him, that's not surpris- ing.

Tom Connally has been one of its main attractions for years, a man of wit and charm, and with many moods that he can use as he pleases for the effect he wants: gay, angry, furious, comical.

He looks more like an actor than any man in the place, with his strangely white hair always curling over the back of his collar. And his clothes are as regular as a cucumber: dark blue suit, black bow tie, boiled shirt, glistening gold studs.

An chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee he is one of the most important men in the country. It's through his commit- tee that most of this country's for- eign program must pass for a pas- sage or a passing.

He's been in Congress 35 years and now he's 74, still active, still bright, and still wishing he could keep his job. But he was to come up for re-election in Texas this year and a younger man wants his seat.

Texas' attorney general, 41-year- old Price Daniel, has been cam- paigning for months. Yesterday the senator called a news conference. He tried to make what he said sound casual and matter-of-fact, like other conferences in the past.

But this one was different be- cause he was different. He was in a new mood. He was sad, and he couldn't disguise it behind an oc- casional shaft of wit. He would not run for re-election, he said.

The job of senator, he said, had become enormous, enough to wear any man down. And although his friends assured him he could win if he ran, he said, he'd have to campaign hard and he didn't think it was worth it.

He may have been frightened in deciding not to run again because

Round Foolish

by ROBERT MOLLOY

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

THE next day being a Saturday, Henri was home early, and he de- cided to have a talk with Leonie about her reading. He found her propped up on her bed, looking at a magazine. She had been silent at dinner; now he noted that she was pale.

"Leonie," he said, "I've been a bit worried about you."

"There's nothing to worry about," Leonie said.

"You know we have your inter- est at heart in anything we do," Henri persuaded. Leonie looked un- comfortable. "Now, there are cer- tain things that your lack of ex- perience—when you're an old na- ve—are not fitting."

"What are you talking about, Uncle?"

"This," Henri said. "Your aunt tells me that you've been reading books by Thomas Hardy. At least, she found them on your shelf."

"What's wrong with that?" Leonie demanded.

"They are not proper reading for a young girl."

Leonie let out a long sigh. "What would you like me to read, Uncle? Sir Walter Scott, I suppose."

"I don't like your attitude," Henri said, "and I'd like you to read something a little more edify- ing than stuff about a lot of Eng- lish rustics."

"Have you read any of Hardy's novels?" Leonie challenged him.

"I've looked at that 'Tess' book," Henri said, "and it's filthy, that's what it is. I should think you'd want to tell your confessor about it."

Leonie regarded him coolly. "I asked Father Dodd over two years ago about reading," she said, "and he told me that a girl in college trying to get an education could read anything she felt was part of her education within reasonable limits. It seems to me that's per- mission enough."

Henri was crestfallen. "Well, if Father Dodd said that—" he con- ceded. "But I still think you might read something better."

Leonie suddenly sat up. "I'm sick and tired of all this superintending!" she burst out. "Why can't the two of you leave me alone? That's all I want!"

"Why, Leonie—"

"Reading's the only pleasure I've got," Leonie stormed. "There's nothing else to do in this dead place."

"Leonie—"

Leonie flung a pillow across the room. It landed squarely against the embroidered sampler exhorting her to honor her father and mother.

"I'm sick of it all!" she wailed.

French Gunmen Take $72,285 in Gold

Paris, April 15 (UP)—Five band- its armed with submachineguns and pistols robbed an armored truck of $74,285 in gold and cur- rency on a busy Paris boulevard today and escaped through a hail of police bullets. Pedestrians who crowded around to watch the hold- up thought it was a movie epu- lently stunt.

Astonished pedestrians of the Rue Notre Dame de Nazareth, one of the city's main boulevards near the Place de la Republique, looked on as the men looted the bullion truck, switched curs and raced away through a fusillade of police bullets.

The bandits drove an inconspic- uous French Peugeot automobile as they overtook the bullion truck on the boulevard and forced it to the curb. The truck had just left a bank to deliver gold to various currency dealers.

The bandits, two of them de- scribed as between 20 and 24 years old while the third was believed to be between 30 and 40, moved with speedy efficiency. Men trained a submachinegun on the armored truck driver. The other two leaped into the truck and hauled out five sacks of gold weighing 106 pounds.

The loot was thrown into a sec- ond car belonging to a neighbor- hood tradesman. Passers-by watched open-mouthed but made no move to interfere as the band- its jumped into the second car.

reports from Texas say Daniel had a good chance of beating the old man if he tried for re-election.

Connally is one of three old sen- ators who are like a bridge be- tween the past and the present in the Senate. The other two, also Democrats like Connally, are Mc- Kellar of Tennessee and Hoey of North Carolina.

Like Connally, Hoey is 74. In length of service, when compared with Connally, he's only a boy. It's been in the Senate eight years. Since his term doesn't end until 1936, this year's elections don't dan- ger him.

He's strictly from the old school: a wing collar, a flower in his lapel, and always an English walking coat, with pants to match. He al- ternates between blue and gray.

McKellar is dean of the three in age and service. He's 83 and has been in Congress 41 years. McKel- lar has neither the wit nor charm of Connally. He has a famous tongue and has been known to talk less about politics and more about the

Knights Templar Name New Leader

Little Rock, April 15 (AP)—The new grand commander of the Knights Templar of Arkansas is J. Miles Roberts of Pine Bluff.

Roberts was elected at the clos- ing session of the organization's annual conference here yesterday. The Knights voted to meet in Little Rock again next year, on April 15-16.

Other officers elected were: Wal- ter H. Estes, Scott, deputy grand commander; Charles H. Cross, Fayetteville, grand generalissimo; John M. States, Jonesboro, grand captain general; John W. Vaile, Ft. Smith, grand senior warden; Axel L. Larson, Fort Springs, grand junior warden; Thomas A. Booth, Little Rock, grand standard bearer; Wesley J. Ketz, Batesville, grand sword bearer; L. M. Greene, Siloam Springs, grand warden; Kenneth C. Johnson, Little Rock, grand captain of the guard.

Re-elected were Dr. Marion A. Hodge, Little Rock, grand prelate; John H. Bedford, Little Rock, grand treasurer; and Charles D. Hill, Little Rock, grand recorder.

Man Gets 12 Years for Slaying

Jonesboro, April 14 (AP)—Raymond Sanders, 24, who evaded an East Arkansas posse for three days, has received a 12-year prison sentence on charges of assault with intent to kill.

The ex-convict was arrested three days after he exchanged gunfire with two officers at his home near Lepanto, Ark. on March 31. A posse combed the swamps and bayou section near Lepanto before finding Sanders in a storm cellar.

He pleaded guilty to the charges in Circuit court here yesterday and was sentenced by Judge Charles W. Light of Paragould. Sanders previously served four years on assault and robbery charges following a 1947 gun but- tle in Brinkley, Ark.

A bullet fired horizontally from a gun will strike the ground at the same time as one dropped from the height of the gun muzzle at the same time.

and raced off down the boulevard. A policeman had given a shrill alarm on his whistle and opened fire. The getaway car passed the police station. The bandits fired back but no one was hurt.

Police squad cars roared down the boulevard only a few moments behind the bandits, but found the car abandoned in a side street, 500 yards from the holdup.

More Money But It Won't Buy Anything

By SAM DAWSON

New York, April 16 (AP)—Ever notice how there seems to be more money around but all of your own pockets seem to have developed holes?

Businessmen are noticing it too. Many a prosperous company may have plenty of "working capital," but very little of it is spendable. Heavy taxes and the increas- ing cost of doing business are forcing many corporations hump- ing to conserve their cash position.

Corporation assets are becoming less liquid, says Edward W. Buge of the Controllers Institute's man- agement planning and control com- mittee, despite the finding recently of the Securities and Exchange Commission that working capital is at an all-time high. So are many other business statistics: Sales taxes, tax payments, plant expan- sion expenditures—all a matter of big money totals.

Buge is controller of the Ber- nardin Bottle Cap Co., Evansville, Ind. He thinks the financial offi- cers of many companies might well worry about "the hard prob- lem of the rising cost of doing business, increasing or higher in- ventories, higher taxes, and extensive expansion programs."

Companies looking for cash have several possible ways out of their dilemma. Buge notes some: 1. Cut prices enough to move merchandise and turn top-heavy inventories into cash. 2. Reduce dividends. 3. Stretch out or stop costly ex- pansion programs. 4. Pare the "excessive and unnecessary ex- penditures of corporate funds that is occurring in all phases of the business."

Another way to raise cash, of course, is to borrow from the bank. Buge thinks, however, that is no longer the easy answer. Banks and insurance companies are now loathe to sell government bonds to raise money for loans.

Being a controller himself, Buge thinks one big help for companies trying to guard against the money pull is to adopt the cash budget plan used by many corporations. Short-term cash forecasts help meet payrolls, discounting invoices, taxes and dividends. Long-term forecasts help take care of plant expansion, debt retirement and ap- proximate cash needs for as long as a year ahead. Buge thinks it's a pity more companies don't use them.
